SUPPORT

Baby loss, whether it is recent or historic is a hard thing to go through. Having support can be really helpful. Here's a few organisations that can offer a range of support.

- Sands is here to support anyone affected by pregnancy loss and the death of a baby to offer understanding and comfort. Every day, we work to improve the care, discover why babies are dying and reduce inequalities in healthcare.
- Aching Arms is a charity that gives its comfort bears to hospitals and hospices, for midwives and nurses to offer to bereaved parents in their care. Along with the bears, we also offer a support service to parents after their loss, whether it was during pregnancy, at birth or soon after.
- Our work sees us providing a support network to bereaved parents following the loss of a baby, training and support for midwives and other health and social care professionals, and research into what can be done to help prevent the loss of a baby in the future
- SUPPORTING FAMILIES THROUGH MISCARRIAGE, STILLBIRTH AND CHILD LOSS.
- TFMR Mamas was created by Emma Belle, podcast host and Mentor, after sadly losing her baby girl, Willow, to TFMR due to Edwards Syndrome in October 2020.
- The Miscarriage Association acknowledges the distress associated with pregnancy loss and strives to make a positive difference to those it affects.
- The Twins Trust Bereavement Service exists to support all parents and carers of twins, triplets or more who have died whether it was during or after pregnancy.
- We are Telford and Wrekin IAPT (Improving Access to Psychological Therapies), formally known as Telford Wellbeing Service. We're here to help people with common mental health problems, such as anxiety and depression.

Watch out for windows

- Keep low furniture away from open windows so that children can't climb up and fall out
- Install window catches (to limit how far they can open) and locks if you can
- If you opt for a lock keep the keys somewhere you can find them in case of emergencies
