Your Home

Visit the Your Home section of our website to find out more about:

Long-term stewardship: Bournville Village Trust is the long-term steward of Lawley; this means we work in partnership with developers and partners to maintain a distinctive and sustainable community.

Annual community charge: All Lawley residents, regardless of whether you are a tenant or homeowner, pay the community charge, which goes towards the running of Lawley. A full breakdown of our annual accounts is available on our website for you to view.

How to alter your home: If you are planning on making an alteration to your home, the Design Guide (available on our website) details what can and can't be done, according to the covenants for your property. Our Design Guide is produced to help you, and members of the BVT team will support you through the alteration process.

The Design Guide: The Design Guide details the alterations that can be made to your home according to your covenants (see below). A copy of the Design Guide is available on our website and the Estates & Stewardship team are available to support throughout the process of applying for an alteration.

Your Home

Visit the Your Home section of our website to find out more about:

What to do when selling your home: We hope you will be happy in Lawley for many years but if the time comes to sell your home, there are processes to follow. Full details are available on our website or pop into the Lawley Community Hub and speak to a member of our team.

Covenants: When buying/renting a home, a TPI document or tenancy agreement is signed. The agreement details what can and can't be done to the outside of your home and within its boundaries (these are called covenants).

If a covenant is broken, it can lead to the start of the breach process, which could result in you having to apply for retrospective permission or even undo the work that has been carried out. We never want this to happen. Key information you need to know about, this can be found within the Your Home section of the website.

Breaches: Breaches take place if a covenant is broken. The process we follow can be found on our website.

BVT Annual Accounts for Lawley: On our website you can find copies of our annual accounts, which detail how your community charge is spent.
